

Raining Cats

Title: Raining Cats

Genre: Dramedy, Coming of Age

Market Audience: Gilmore Girls, Welcome to the Dollhouse, My Dog Skip

Log Line: A young girl overcomes the death of her pet cat by rescuing all the strays in her neighborhood - meanwhile, her single mother finds romance with the local mall Santa Claus.

When you're afraid of the world, how can you be a hero?

CONTACT: Deb Havener, writer/producer, debhavener@gmail.com, 614.264.6679

A note from two-time Nicholl Fellowship semi-finalist writer Deb Havener

When I sat down to write Raining Cats the words poured out like a rainstorm.

This story is for anyone who has ever lost a pet.

It's for anyone who was ever afraid to speak up.

It's for anyone who still struggles to find their voice and a sense of worth.

And it's for all of us who are afraid to find the hero within.

And did I mention it's also a comedy?

This young adult/family story is dedicated to the animals who have suffered in our war zones, to those who were left behind during our natural disasters, and to those discarded beings we walk by on the street every day without a glance.

And it's for a three-legged cat name Banjo who helped me find a sense of belonging.

CONTACT: Deb Havener, writer/producer, debhavener@gmail.com, 614.264.6679
www.prettyegg.org